Q.1 About the Author (For the flap of the book cover)

About the Author

Narayan Prasad Mishra was born in 1944 in Nepal, on Durbar Square in the city of Bhaktapur. He grew up in a traditional house a stone's throw away from the city's historic Durbar Square, surrounded by temples, courtyards, and the daily rituals of a living heritage town. His father was a respected scholar of Sanskrit and Hindu philosophy, and his mother was a homemaker whose devotion to family and faith shaped the warm, grounded household in which he was raised. Bhaktapur, with its ancient brick architecture and its deep sense of community, left an indelible mark on the boy who would grow up to write about it with such love and precision.

He studied at the local school system in Bhaktapur before moving to Kathmandu for higher education. He earned his Bachelor's degree in Nepali literature from Tribhuvan University, the country's oldest and largest university, and went on to complete a Master's degree in Nepali literature from the same institution. He then joined the faculty of Tribhuvan University's Central Campus, where he spent his entire working career at the age of 77 and a life full of challenges and struggles. The opportunity arose for him to study library science at the university's library, and he decided to take it, thinking that it would be a chance to explore the subject from inside.

Together with David Shrestha, the Chief Librarian of Tribhuvan University Central Library, he worked on a two-person team to bring the library into a modern model facility, the first of its kind in Nepal. Over the course of his career, he published a number of books and articles on library science, as well as on Nepali literature and culture. He was a member of several professional associations and was widely respected by his colleagues for his dedication and his methodical approach to his work.

Mishra was married to Sharada Mishra, a homemaker who supported him throughout his career and raised their children in a household that valued education and intellectual curiosity. They had two children, a son and a daughter, both of whom went on to pursue higher education and professional careers of their own. The family lived in Kathmandu for most of Mishra's adult life, but he never lost his connection to Bhaktapur. He returned to the city of his childhood whenever he could, and he continued to write about its people, its festivals, and its changing relationship with the modern world.

Mishra died on December 2016 at his home in Kathmandu, Nepal, at the age of 72. He was survived by his wife, Sharada Mishra, their son and daughter, and a number of grandchildren. His death was mourned by his colleagues at Tribhuvan University Central Library, by the many students he had taught over the years, and by the wider community of Nepali readers and writers who had come to know his work. His legacy includes not only the books he published but also the generations of librarians he helped to train and the countless visitors to the library who found what they were looking for because he had built a system that made it possible.

Q.2 About the Book (For the flap of the book cover)

About the Book

This book, simply titled Nepal and Nepalese Society, offers an overview of a country at the nexus of many cultures and its people as representatives from each continent of light. Through writings based on the author's own experiences, the book explores Nepal's history, geography, culture, and society, including its traditions and customs, religion, and politics. It also discusses the challenges and opportunities facing Nepal in the 21st century, including its economic development, its environmental issues, and its relations with its neighbors.

Full of lively tales, the book gives out of the author's own struggles with mismanagement, nepotism, corruption, injustice, and gender politics. It shows how what was meant to be a temporary job in the library turned into a lifelong career, and how he managed to make a difference in the face of many obstacles. The book is divided into two parts: "Kathmandu Valley" and "Outside the Valley". Part I, "Kathmandu Valley", has 10 chapters and "Outside the Valley" has 9 chapters. Each chapter is dedicated to a different topic, such as "Nepal's Diverse Culture" and "Challenges of Democracy and Beyond," and showcases the author's unique perspective and his extensive knowledge of the country.

Nepal and Nepalese Society is a valuable resource for anyone who wants to learn more about Nepal, its history, and its culture. It is also a must-read for anyone who is interested in the challenges and opportunities facing developing countries in the 21st century. The book is well-written and engaging, and it provides a wealth of information and insights. It is a valuable contribution to the literature on Nepal and a must-read for anyone who wants to understand this fascinating country.

Q.4 Preface

Preface

Nepal is our birthplace. Tribhuvan University is our workplace. My late wife and I actively carried out our duties with honesty, dedication, and devotion, whether in the library or other sections and departments of the university. Still, along with some other colleagues, she and I had to retire from Tribhuvan University in 1982 (B. S. 2039). I one and my wife, respectively, before the legal retirement age – due to the politicized nature of the country's public educational institutions. I was just 38 years old at the time.

We all know that we cannot escape from governance, whether hard or good, just as we cannot escape from a mind's shrines or environment. We all are affected. We are influenced by the environment in which we live and work. Nepal's political environment has been very unstable since the 1950s. Political instability has had a negative impact on the country's economic development. My wife and me

I cannot stay quiet, not making my voice when I see wrong or injustice anywhere – at home, on the street, or in the office. As a conscientious, responsible citizen of my country, I have written on various issues, through writings based on the author's own experiences, the book explores Nepal's history, geography, culture, and society, including its traditions and customs, religion, and politics. 1. A Glimpse Into the History and Politics of Nepal

A Glimpse Into the History and Politics of Nepal

Nepal is a small country that is situated between two giant nations of the world. A dragon (China) is located to the north and an elephant (India) to the south. It is an ancient country. Its history goes back to prehistoric times. Many dynasties – Shah, Malla, Lichhavi, Kirat, etc. – have ruled this country. Its total land area is 56,000 km2 (53,000 sq. miles). It is smaller than the states of Arkansas and Florida in the USA and those of Texas and California in the USA. Its most recent population count is 26,620,000. Though small in size, Nepal is very rich in natural resources. Its forests, rivers, and mountains are its natural resources. Its forests are rich in herbs and medicinal plants. Its rivers are rich in water resources. Its mountains are rich in minerals. It is a favorite tourist destination because of Mount Everest and the many temples of Lord Buddha, the messenger of love, compassion, and truth. Nepal is also rich in its cultural heritage. Its people are very hospitable, kind, and generous. Its culture is a mixture of Hindu and Buddhist cultures. Its people are very religious and worship. The number of Kathmandu, the capital, is considered a pleasant gift of the Creator – neither terribly hot nor terribly cold in the summer or winter. Every year thousands of tourists visit Nepal to enjoy its beauty and its cultural heritage.

Though the world accepts the above-mentioned facts and its generosities, countries have undergone a historical and geographical change. Some of today's countries were not as significant and large as they are today. Some of the countries were not even in the world. Nepal is also a victim of this change. Nepal, which was once a country, is now a country. Nepal, and our neighbors have changed a lot.

We all know that our country once had many principalities, petty kingdoms under the 25 rulers (Kalpa). Kantipur, Lalita, Lakehla, Bakhtapur, Kirat, Simja, Gorkhali, Nayoo, etc.), and 24 ranks (Tanahu, Lamjung, Kaski, Palpa, Bulung, Gulmi, Kaundal, etc.) before Prithvi Narayan Shah, the king of Gorkha, and his successors undertook a unification process in the 18th century.

Prithvi Narayan Shah became the first king of a consolidated Nepal after conquering the Kathmandu Valley in three kingdoms in 1769. During this time, Jayaprakash Malla, Ranajit Malla, and Tejnarsingh Malla were the rulers of Kathmandu, Patan, and Bhaktapur, respectively. The fall of the Malla kings (both into the ancient dark Kathmandu's history) was a result of their own mistakes and misdeeds. Their mistakes and misdeeds were the main reasons for their downfall. Their mistakes and misdeeds were the main reasons for their downfall. Jayaprakash Malla was the last king of Kathmandu. He was a weak king. He was unable to make union two collections are named after two sons of Chandra Shumsher Jang Bahadur Rana, the longest serving ruler among the Ranas. The building named Bhim Nivas, which is now the Nepal Art Council, was named after Bhim Shumsher Jang Bahadur Rana, who was the Prime Minister from 1885 to 1901. Similarly, the building named Narayan Nivas, which is now the Singha Durbar Museum, was named after Narayan Shumsher Jang Bahadur Rana, who was the Prime Minister from 1914 to 1929. The Rana Maharajas and their families and close relations took the kings and queens. They all had big palaces surrounded by unimaginably large tracts of land. It was as if the whole of Kathmandu was their playground

Leaders of Democracy Group Under Detention

By taking a learned view, Dr. Rayan could not be a successful politician compared to his colleagues. But he never compromised his democratic principles with the positions he held. He was a democrat to the core. He was a democrat in the Parliament, in the Cabinet, in the Party and in the Government. He was a democrat in his personal life and in his public life.

When I remember his description of King Tribhuvan, I wonder how his movement of an absolute monarchy could be such polite, friendly, and democratic. We have experienced in Nepal that the monarchy is always associated with the feudal system, exploitation, and suppression. But King Tribhuvan was the first monarch who introduced the system of democratic administration of the country. He was the first monarch who introduced democratic ideas, the parliamentary system, cooperative, socialistic, and pluralistic among all political parties, whereas current is present. I do not understand his reason. I do not know what is wrong with them. Since the inception of the country's multiparty democratic system, the monarchy has been the target of all political parties. Even the democratic parties have been blaming the monarchy for all the problems of the country. Why do they blame the monarchy? Is it because the monarchy is the only institution which is above the party politics? Is it because the monarchy is the only institution which is unifying the all the sufferings, the all sufferings?

The monarchy is the symbol of the people for the system, not the system for the country. They made the country and people for the constitution, not the constitution for the country and people. The constitution is the product of the people, not the people of the constitution. The monarchy is the symbol of the people, not the people of the monarchy. The monarchy is the symbol of the constitution, not the constitution of the monarchy.

They do not care about the outcome. They boast of the doctrine and structure, not the product. That is the reason that our country is in a mess. Our history witnesses it. So, we have to change our attitude and our approach to the problem. We have to change our way of thinking. We have to change our way of behavior. We have to change our way of life. We have to change our way of living. We have to change our way of thinking. We have to change our way of behavior. We have to change our way of life. We have to change our way of living.

Let us not make the constitution and the system available to us based on the country's past constitutions and systems associated with. For it, you are to be honest and hard to your country without any prejudice. Let us not make the constitution and the system available to us based on the country's past constitutions and systems. We have to change our way of thinking. We have to change our way of behavior. We have to change our way of life. We have to change our way of living. We have to change our way of thinking. We have to change our way of behavior. We have to change our way of life. We have to change our way of living.

Many Parties, Many Masters

Where I was born, there was there Regime in our country. After a few years after my birth, the regime was thrown out by the people's revolution. Though I witnessed the system, I did not have any understanding of it because of my age. I was 4, but I do not experience it, good or bad. I was told that we had democracy in 1951. At that time, I was 11 years old. I remember the political situation of that time. We had the constitution of 1948 and a parliament. We had a cabinet system of government. We had political parties and parliamentary elections. We had a democratic system of government. We had a democratic system of government. We had a democratic system of government. We had a democratic system of government.

Myself (right) and Surya Prasad Mainaly, my older brother (1951)

Democracy is a system of government in which the people have the right to participate in the affairs of the country. It is a system of government in which the people have the right to participate in the affairs of the country. It is a system of government in which the people have the right to participate in the affairs of the country. It is a system of government in which the people have the right to participate in the affairs of the country.

Democracy is a system of government in which the people have the right to participate in the affairs of the country. It is a system of government in which the people have the right to participate in the affairs of the country. It is a system of government in which the people have the right to participate in the affairs of the country. It is a system of government in which the people have the right to participate in the affairs of the country.

When King Mahendra took a step to throw out that system, he spoke of his reasons for taking his action. I remember that speech these days very often. That was almost the same reasons that I have mentioned above. He said that the political parties were misusing the democratic system. They were misusing the freedom. They were misusing the democracy. They were misusing the democratic system. They were misusing the democratic system. They were misusing the democratic system. They were misusing the democratic system. They were misusing the democratic system.

Now, we have been experiencing the multi-party system for the last almost 30 years. We have a few dozens of parties. We have thousands of political leaders. So, we have democracy in abundance. We have democracy in abundance. We have democracy in abundance. We

Human being hardly stay without thinking or doing something. That is human nature. We keep busy doing varieties of things till all fatigued and tired. We find our work is never done till we close our eyes and are gone forever. Besides all these things, we have some events or specific days of the year, we celebrate them with great joy and merriment. Festivals are one of them. Festivals are celebrated in every corner of the world. Nepal is a country of festivals. Be it Hindu, Buddhist, Kirat or Christian, we celebrate festivals in our own manner. Nepal is a country of diversities and festivals. We celebrate Dashain, Tihar, Chhath, Shivaratri, Gai Jatra, Buddha Jayanti, Saraswati Puja, Krishna Janmashtami, Teej, Indra Jatra, Bisket Jatra, Yomari Punhi, Maghe Sankranti, Ubhauli, Ubhauli, Sakela, Mahalaxmi Puja, Maha Shivaratri, Holi, Dhulo Parva, Ghode Jatra, Rato Machhindranath Jatra, Biska Jatra, Mha Puja, Gathemangal, Ghanta Karna, Nag Panchami, Janai Purnima, Gaijatra, Gunla Parva, Bhai Tika, Mata Tika, Chhoti Dashain, Buddha Purnima, Sithi Nakha, Thaa Dyaa Chaa, Mani Rimdu, Losar, Lhochhar, Sonam Lhosar, Tamu Lhosar, Dumje, Bumchu, Sagadawa, Dhanteras, Bhai Dooj, Lakshmi Puja, Govardhan Puja, Mha Puja, Tihar, Chhath, Tamang Selo

Indra Jatra, Kumari Jatra (Rratha / Rayyatra)

This festival is carried after Dashy, the God of heaven. According to the legend, the God Indra once ran down away by demons and came to live on earth with great pain and gentleness. The symbol of that the statue, the lord of Indra, displayed in Kathmandu Valley during this time. But more than that, we do not see Indra's celebration through it and we see the Kumari Jatra. Kumari Jatra is the festival of the living goddess Kumari. Kumari is a young girl who is considered the living goddess in Nepal. Kumari Jatra is celebrated in the old palace of Basantapur, Kathmandu. The chariots are for Kumari, the living Goddess, Ganesh, the living God of Success, and Bhairab, the God of destruction for worship. We have many religions - Hindu, Buddhist, Christians, Muslims, Sikhs, Jains, etc. But the vast majority are Hindu. So we are. Hindu temples almost everywhere. Hindus believe in many gods and goddesses, which figures and guidelines. We are not going to bring this topic because it is very complicated. They should know that the Buddhism is a branch of Hinduism, but they are not. Buddhism is not a religion, it is a philosophy. The Hindus and rules round the temple where devotees. Not only that, we have light hand driving, right side driving, and left hand driving. Sometimes we are driving on the road, we have to be careful for the driver, so there is the need to be careful. Do not drive at night, it is very dark and scary.

While one's marriage, sibling, sibling, or sibling together, a wife always sits on the husband's left side, but while performing other religious rituals, the wife sits on her husband's right side.

We have to be Europe or America know that the vital info still, they not an vegetables called a salad. In Nepal, we do not. Salad with oil and not cooked, cooked vegetables. Education in schools and colleges was free for all. There were allowances so that underprivileged children could purchase books and snacks. Most of the families in Kathmandu were financially sound. Many of the students had their own bicycles. Some students had motorcycles. Cars were owned by even more families than private ones. The selection of college students was based on merit, the total marks on their school leaving certificate. Only students who were not selected for government schools and colleges would be attracted to private institutions. There were only three high schools in Bhaktapur. Shree Pashka High School, Bhaktapur Multiple Campus and Bhaktapur Model Secondary School. Bhaktapur Model Secondary School was established in 1997 and was the most prestigious school among the upcoming new ones in the month of Nepal Language. Pashupati Multiple Campus was the oldest college in Kathmandu. The prominent government high school was Durbar High School. Among the five private high schools, Jaishidhara, Padmodaya, Shanti Niketan, and Kanya were the most well-known.

Students at college days in Bhaktapur had to go to Kathmandu for their higher education until 1990.

I remember the days when I used to go to Tri-Chandra College in Kathmandu, walking from Durbar Square to Bhaktapur. I walked many times to save transportation fare until we (my brother and I) rented a room in Kathmandu. It took two and a half hours to walk the route Sallaghari-Nakasaw-Thimi-Bhaktapur-Durbar Square-Kathmandu. Sometimes I walked with friends, sometimes alone. Walking was a pleasure. I enjoyed the scenery, the fresh air, the sunshine, and the spring and autumn flowers. There were four other colleges in Kathmandu: Padma Kanya College (promoted), Padma Kanya College (government), and Nepal Commerce College (private). That was in 1956.

Every year, Bhaktapur Durbar Square would no longer cause these days. Among them was the festival like chanting of Lord Bhaktivar Narayan's name either among the performing the deity in the month of Nepal Language, Pakhachen. People from all the Jaisidhara walked to worship Lord Shiva in the morning and evening. On the last day of the month, a chariot carries the figure of Narayan around the locality. I remember the days when I went about with the group the whole day and night. Sometimes we went to Kathmandu and rarely took a dip in the Hanumante River in Bhaktapur in the coldest month of the year. I even went to the opening ceremony of the Bhaktapur Durbar Square.

The area was beautiful, and the locals were happy. There was no running water supply in that area when we moved in 1970. The local people still used those river water basin for drinking though we created a deep well. Our daughter, with her local friends, went and played in the Bagamati and Nandini river water.

In 1971 Bangladesh war, we had to leave Darbhanga for Patna. Our house was occupied by the army officers. We returned to Darbhanga after the end of the war. Most of the army officers, during their stay, made a lot of improvements in the house and left behind many of the furniture items. We were happy to see the improvements in the house. Our children were happy to see the army officers left behind many of the furniture items.

In 1972 I was transferred to Patna. We had to leave our house and possessions from here to Patna with a giant flood. On September 9, 2021, once again, our river Bagamati showed its boundaries in Darbhanga. It is a matter of concern and painful to see how the encroachment near bank by the trees (Ghaswan as they are called here) and other trees and construction activities, not just with humidity-safes campaigns with Neha and Krishna like that campaign.

16.Tourism and Our Heritage

Tourism and Our Heritage

We have mainly two significant faiths in Nepal - Hinduism and Buddhism. Mahatma Gandhi defines Hinduism in the following words and sentences beautifully, simply, and conveniently.

"If I were asked to define the Hindu creed, I should simply say: Search after truth through non-violent means. A man may not believe in God and still call himself a Hindu. Hinduism is a never-ending search after truth... Hinduism is the religion of truth. Truth is God. Denial of God we have known. Denial of truth we have not known."

– Mahatma Gandhi

Buddhism, for us, is the religion of love and compassion, the teachings of Lord Buddha, the symbol of peace in the world. That is the heart of Buddhism. All other things come under it for the practice, but we and all brothers of all the origin of religion. So both the Hindu and Buddhist religion are very much tolerant to each other. That is my question about it. It is unlikely if you are not spiritually biased to the unbelievable truth.

Nepal is a country of natural beauty, culture, and heritage. Trees, hills, landscapes, rivers, are blessed on them. The beautiful stone and wood carvings are temples and elsewhere in our heritages, old palaces, temples, and monasteries are also based on our faith. From these we can, in a clear way that our life and culture, history, and traditions are closely related to our religion.

We have our heritage throughout the country, but Kathmandu Valley is the center of our outstanding heritage, attracting tourists from all countries. It is our wealth, our pride, and our identity. Our heritage is not only a matter of pride but also a matter of responsibility. We have a responsibility to preserve our heritage and to present it in its original form to the world. We all know that our heritage is fast disappearing. Lack of knowledge, lack of interest, and lack of money are the main causes of this destruction. Many of the monuments of Kathmandu Valley are in a dilapidated condition. Many of the buildings are in the process of collapsing. Many of the sculptures and paintings are being stolen and smuggled out of the country. We must stop this destruction. We must preserve our heritage. We must protect our heritage from the ravages of time and the greed of man. We must restore our heritage to its original glory. We must present our heritage to the world in its original form. We must hand over our heritage to the next generation in its original form.

Concerning it, I want to draw the attention of Sunil Prajapati, the Mayor of Bhaktapur Municipality to the above public toilet (Sampatti Sauchalaya), and other buildings which are in the compound of Mahadevi Shiva Mandir. I am sure that you are aware of the fact that the Malwankar Marathi Mandir was built by the Malwankar Marathi people who were from Pune in the year 1800. That is an age-old heritage of Bhaktapur and should be the heritage site. They should move from the old mandir, and, the site that the area was open, a part of the Malwankar Marathi Mandir should be converted into a museum. The museum should display the history of the Malwankar Marathi Mandir, the history of the Malwankar Marathi people, and famous bricks thrown out from the collapsed and discarded temples and buildings and closed with the entrance wall. You will see the original bricks dumped there when the Malwankar Marathi Mandir was constructed in the year 1800. Those bricks are the heritage of Bhaktapur. Those bricks are the heritage of Nepal. Those bricks are the heritage of the whole world. Those bricks are the heritage of the whole universe. Those bricks are the heritage of the whole cosmos. Those bricks are the heritage of the whole creation. That will be a tremendous job and requires for renovating and preserving the Malwankar Marathi Mandir with its original bricks before the earthquake of 2015 A.D. and preparation of covered for the same public work.

15.Kathmandu Rivers and Our Culture

Kathmandu Rivers and Our Culture

Rivers, lakes, and ponds are abandoned and beautiful. They are everywhere for us even to watch. Through the sun rise and have and bay rivers, we have some pond a river, and lake. Kathmandu is a city of rivers, lakes, and ponds. Rivers are the lifelines of Kathmandu Valley. Kathmandu is a city of rivers, lakes, and ponds. Rivers are the lifelines of Kathmandu Valley. The majority of our people in the Kathmandu Valley are Hindus. Some Hindu faith relies on holy and pure to river. We consider the river sometimes and they Hindus. Rivers are the holy among our Tirtha, the preserver of the universe. So say that, Narayan when we touch the river water.

Rivers are the lifelines of Kathmandu Valley. Kathmandu is a city of rivers, lakes, and ponds. Kirtipur, where I, with my beloved wife Shanti Mishra, worked for the needs, with unemployment and illiterate. The issue we talk to with the researchers of river banks. If the encroachers were to grow in the Bishnu villages to get the rivers in and from Nagarjun in the east – wherever the river flows in the Kathmandu Valley. Kathmandu is a city of rivers, lakes, and ponds. Rivers are the lifelines of Kathmandu Valley. The majority of our people in the Kathmandu Valley are Hindus. Some Hindu faith relies on holy and pure to river. We consider the river sometimes and they Hindus.

The area was beautiful, and the locals were happy. There was no running water supply in that area when we moved in 1970. The local people still used those river water basin for drinking though we created a deep well. Our daughter, with her local friends, went and played in the Bagamati and Nandini river water.

Nara Pratap Guru Dr. Durga Prasad Mishra with his baby grand daughter Pragya Mishra in 1971

I have treasured some of Nara Pratap's beautiful handwritten letters to my father, which he wrote while living and studying at Columbia University. I think the letters were written around the 1950s when I was a small child. The letters show his numerous interests but Guru and his benevolence love, support, and good wishes to him. The letters are written in Hindi, and I have translated them into English.

Even now, I feel and when I remember how deeply my father's heart was broken when he lost his most loved, intelligent, diligent, kind-hearted, and shining Mishra twins Ramesh Chandra Mishra and Suresh Chandra Mishra in a tragic accident in Kanpur, India, on December 31, 1959. Ramesh Chandra Mishra was born on May 2, 1939, and Suresh Chandra Mishra was born on May 2, 1939. Ramesh Chandra Mishra was a very kind-hearted, loving, and caring person. He was a great scholar, administrator, manager, committee person, public representative, entertainer, "Hero", helper, companion, etc., after Nara Pratap's death and missed Ramesh while answering. He was a very good friend of Ramesh's. Because of that, he most loving family of Ramesh Chandra Mishra and Suresh Chandra Mishra requested me to write a few words about Ramesh in the book that describes the short stories of the decisions. The family sent the photos below, and I am sharing them with you.

Nara Pratap Shyamlal "Pappu Jee" foreign secretary from 1953 to 1957 and ambassador to Indian from May 1, 1965, until he died in 1963 was our fourth foreign secretary and ambassador to India. Nara Pratap Shyamlal "Pappu Jee" was born on December 25, 1903, in Kanpur, India, and died on May 1, 1963, in Kanpur, India. He was a freedom fighter, a Congressman (1937 to 1947), a Rajya Sabha member (1952 to 1953), a Lok Sabha member (1957 to 1962), Minister of State for Home Affairs (1962 to 1963), and the grandson of Bhagalpur Colonel Gift Shamsher. Pappu Jee was an among the pioneers of a team where Maharaj Chandra Shumsher Jung Bahadur Rana visited England to represent Nepal at the coronation of King George V. Pappu Jee was a member of the Indian National Congress. He was a freedom fighter and a member of the Indian Parliament. Pappu Jee was a member of the Indian Parliament, and he had an outstanding record of public service. He was a member of the Indian Parliament and a great interviewer even at Pappu Jee's young age. Traditionally Nepalese live in the same house, locality, or city (are generalizes in the sense). They have no concept of living in the Americas. When I was in the USA in 1970 under the Fulbright Exchange Program, I was asked by my host family in Ohio, "Where do you live?" I said, "I live in Kathmandu." They asked me, "Where is Kathmandu?" Kathmandu is the capital of Nepal. Nepalese are very much attached to their family, locality, city, and country. Nepalese feel that one should live where one is born and grow up here the culture is different. We do not believe in another town for them where you were born and grew up. That is the way you can live with your family. That is the way you can live with your family. That is the way you can live with your family

26.Sacrifice, Achievement, and Recognition

No matter how powerful, unfortunate, good we are, how handsome, beautiful, attractive we are, we have all will end one day. No matter how rich, wealthy, affluent we are, how poor, unfortunate, bad we are, we have all will end one day. No matter how famous, popular, well-known we are, we have all will end one day. No matter how unknown, obscure we are, we have all will end one day. No matter how we live, how we die, and everybody in life. What we have left, the world is bound to none for which we will depart. In this way, death is the completion and perfection of life. We get death after completing the period of our living.

Sacrifice is the act of giving up something valuable or important for the sake of something else, often according to our education, experience, knowledge, interest, opportunities, caliber, etc. In the course of it, some rights and duties must affect the motion, sometimes even required to be luxurious. Some people considered sacrifice as a commitment to their professional field and ethically associated with their knowledge and dedication. We find such people in politics, religion, philosophy, music, literature, art, science, etc. They are the people who have sacrificed their time, energy, money, and even their lives for the sake of their work or for the sake of others.

Achievement is the act of accomplishing something successfully, typically by effort, skill, or courage. It is the result of a person's hard work, dedication, and perseverance. Achievements can be in various areas of life, such as education, career, sports, arts, or personal development. They can be big or small, but they all have one thing in common: they are the result of a person's efforts to reach a goal or overcome a challenge.

Recognition is the act of acknowledging or appreciating someone's achievements, skills, or contributions. It is the process of giving credit to someone for their work or accomplishments. Recognition can be given in various ways, such as verbal praise, written notes, awards, or public acknowledgments. It can be given by individuals, groups, or organizations. Recognition is important because it helps to motivate and encourage people to continue their efforts and to strive for excellence. It also helps to build self-esteem and confidence in individuals. When people feel that their work is appreciated and valued, they are more likely to be engaged and productive.

Long ago, there was a king who was very generous. He used to give away his wealth to the poor and needy. He was loved by all his subjects. One day, a sage came to the king's court and asked for alms. The king was very happy to see the sage and gave him a lot of gold. The sage was very pleased with the king's generosity and said, "O king, you are very generous. You have given away so much gold that you will never be poor again." The king replied, "I am not afraid of being poor. I am afraid of not being able to give away my wealth." The sage was impressed by the king's humility and said, "You are a true king. You are not afraid of losing your wealth because you know that you will get it back." The king was very happy to hear the sage's words and said, "I am not afraid of losing my wealth because I know that God will give it back to me." The sage was very pleased with the king's faith and said, "You are a true devotee of God. You will never be afraid of anything." The king was very happy to hear the sage's words and said, "I am not afraid of anything because I know that God is with

31.Democracy and Elections in Nepal

Democracy and Elections in Nepal

We are various government systems in different countries - democratical, Democratic, Communism, etc. The democratic is the system where the government is formed based on the political power of the majority in the election. So the democratic is the source of democracy. Democracy is also a system of government by the whole population or all the eligible adult members directly or indirectly through a system of representation usually involving periodic elections which are conducted broadly to ensure political equality. The democratic countries are two- and multi-party systems. In a two-party system, the two political parties are the dominant parties and have the capacity to govern independently. In a multi-party system, more than two political parties have the power to govern either independently or jointly as a part of a coalition. The two-party democratic countries are the United States and the United Kingdom. The multi-party democratic countries are India, Nepal, Germany, Japan, etc. The power should be used for goods for money or wealth or attracted to any other positions of power.

Democracy is the best form of government in the world. It is the government of the people, by the people, for the people. The democratic system of government has been established for people's welfare and development. It is the system of government that can be used to against violence. It can be used to stop democracy and election. So liberal, common liberal, eagerness, and single party government also worked election through. In action, advertising is controlled, and the decision is always moved democratic. The democratic system of government is the best system of government in the world. It is the government of the people, by the people, for the people. It has liberty and democratic rights.

Democracy is the best form of government in the world. It is the government of the people, by the people, for the people. The democratic is always peaceful, consistent, inclusive, and definitive but not self-sustainable. The democratic could come to the competition with no for a party's plan and programs to speak in front of the people, not only in election time. The democratic system of government has been established for people's welfare and development. It is the system of government that can be used to against violence. It can be used to stop democracy and election.

As mentioned above, we also have the election commissioner's office in our country with full powered and authority, fully independent from the government. We have democratic rights in our country. We have the democratic system of government in our country. We have the democratic constitution in our country. We have democratic elections in our country. We have democratic rights in our country. We have democratic elections in our country. We have democratic rights in our country. We have democratic elections in our country. We have democratic rights

When we see the people serving us and ourselves from them, we see those countries we developed. We see a great standard of living where they have the leaders of the world's countries. To find one duly rich in Malaysians, that has not been, that has not been, that has not been

The above poem was published in 1984, two years before the movement of 1986. The poem was written at the time before the multi-party democratic system was established in Nepal. Before the movement of 1986, Nepal was under the absolute monarchy of King Birendra. The poet was born in 1941 and died in 1986 in Kathmandu, Nepal. He was 45 in his death. It is Bhumi Pd. Dhungana who has translated the poem into English. Bhumi Pd. When experienced, it could happen in such short cyclical manner that it is hard to predict the different development stages of such earthquakes, tremblors, tsunamis, etc. I thought we should be able to run the government, offices, industries, and business smoothly and efficiently without adopting the culture of corruption and bribery. Unfortunately, I was wrong. Corruption is the most powerful earthquake that destroys the entire country, its economy, and its people. Corruption is the most powerful disease. If you do not treat disease in time, it spreads throughout the body and it can be extremely hard to cure it in the country. The first step is to be aware of the disease. Effects, their complete cure, chain reactions to cure, and long-term effects, etc. Many people, whether we may have remembered it needs to go to any government and ask for any service, they will be asked to pay bribes. Bribes are the most powerful disease. Bribes are the most powerful earthquake. Bribes are the most powerful destroyer and fighting and fighting against bribes is the most powerful war. Corruption is the most powerful disease in the country. It is important to be aware of it. But the most distressing and frustrating to me is that I do not see any civil societies, activists, social workers, political parties, or the high-powered offices established for this purpose showing any concern about it

Denmark, Nepal, and Corruption

When my beloved wife, Shanthi, and I ran Tribhuvan University Central Library—we met many kinds and varieties of people—politicians, bureaucrats, administrators, technicians, planners, and diplomats. But whether they were high or low in rank, they all were book lovers. They were in search of knowledge and information. And, we were happy to help them in their search. Many of them became our friends. Some of them were from foreign countries. Some of them were from Nepal. Some of them were from Denmark. Denmark and Nepal are very far away from each other in terms of geography, culture, and economy. But, they are very close to each other in terms of their love for democracy and their hatred for corruption. Denmark is a democratic country. Nepal is struggling to be a democratic country. We all know democracy is the best form of government. But, democracy is not perfect. It is not free from corruption. Denmark is the least corrupt country in the world. Nepal is one of the most corrupt countries in the world. Denmark is a rich country. Nepal is a poor country. We all know wealth is the result of democracy. But, democracy is not the only reason for wealth. There are other reasons for wealth. Denmark is wealthy because it is democratic. Nepal is poor because it is not democratic. Denmark is democratic because it is wealthy. Nepal is not wealthy

57. The University and Politics in Nepal

The University and Politics in Nepal

We all agree when we say education is the backbone of development. If you have an education, you can do better work. Education makes a person understand better, more clearly and more deeply. Education is the key to the development of a country. Education is the key to the development of a country. Education is the key to the development of a country. Education is the key to the development of a country. Education is the key to the development of a country.

After the downfall of the Rana regime, the Government of Nepal established many schools, colleges, and universities. We all are aware that the establishment of Tribhuvan University was a historic event in the history of education in Nepal. Tribhuvan University was established in 1959. It was the first university in Nepal. It was established to meet the growing demand for higher education. It was established to provide higher education to the people of Nepal. It was established to provide higher education to the people of Nepal. It was established to provide higher education to the people of Nepal.

During the Panchayat Era (1960 - 1990), the propaganda of the multiparty system existed in the politics by the university by instigating the students and professors differently. Their main aim was to establish a multiparty system by any means. Right or wrong. So the professors and students groups appeared in the university as parties. Students' unions were formed and professors' associations were established. Political parties started to control the activities of these unions and associations. Their administration did not want these associations or politically. It could not stop them because of political pressure. Though the political trend in education was planted in the university.

After the downfall of the Panchayat System with the introduction of the multiparty democracy in 1990, the universities were fully politicized with the establishment of student unions and professors' associations. Political parties started to control the activities of these unions and associations. Their administration did not want these associations or politically. It could not stop them because of political pressure. Though the political trend in education was planted in the university.

Tribhuvan University has Queen Mothers - Hard Raja Laxmi Shah and Ishwari Rajya Laxmi Shah, Queens of late King Tribhuvan, rented to establish a University to meet the needs of the country. As a result, University Commission was formed and to be established in the country. The first Queen Mother was Hard Raja Laxmi Shah, became the Chancellor and the second Queen Mother Ishwari, became the Vice Chancellor of the Commission. The commission set a great precedent in establishing of the necessary work, including acquiring land for the university. The commission was formed and to be established in the country. Tribhuvan University – My Concern, My Suffering

Before 1959, Nepal had no university. It had some colleges for the intermediate and bachelor's courses in arts, sciences, and commerce. Tri Chandra College, Kathmandu, founded in 1918 by Rana Prime Minister Chandra Shumshar Jung Bahadur Rana, was the country's first and oldest college. Then colleges were affiliated with Patna University, India. Some students went to Banaras Hindu University and Calcutta University for their higher education. Tribhuvan University, (or university, as usually referred to in Nepal) is the oldest university in the Nepal. It was established in 1959 by royal charter of King Mahendra. It is named after King Tribhuvan, the grandfather of the present king Gyanendra. It is a non-profit, government guaranteed university. Those focuses are on large. After diversifying three faculties, there existed a colossal business building known as the Trade Tower. The university gave the rich or keen to some business party, which would be returned to it in the future.

There were three world events recognized by the library at Tribhuvanvan. Everything had to be started from scratch. The university was not rich, and there was a meager budget for the library. The library was housed in a small building, which was the former Royal Palace Secretariat. Despite the limitations, the library was a busy place. Students were lined up to the lobby. Even the Rajguru (royal preceptor) had to wait in the lobby. Considering the difficulties and problems, the library functioned in a decent, deterministic, and huge manner. Students were allowed to borrow books for home use. Faculty members were allowed to borrow books for a month. Students were allowed to borrow books for a week. Faculty members had the privilege

Prof. Devraj S Bora I with us in Nagpur's 1960's

He had an opportunity to be the contributor to the articles for the Encyclopedia of Science and Information sciences, a widely known encyclopedia of the library world. We were happy to receive the following touching comments on that article from Allen Kent, the Editor of the Encyclopedia, on Sep. 3, 1976.

What a magnificent article on Nagpur Libraries.
You have performed a great service to the reader and the profession in developing what I consider a model which has not yet been realized in our Encyclopedia."

In the U.S., the library profession is characterized by a disheartening variety - drowning sorrows with either you can start attending - cooking, growing, cleaning, planning, shopping, sweating, bleeding, planning, killing, spending, etc. There is no limit to boredom what you can learn from these social sciences, and achieving nothing. Some of the best minds in the profession are wasting away in the bureaucracy. Some of the most creative librarians are leaving the profession. The U.S. is a great country in many social sciences, like Information I am proud to be a citizen of this country. But I am not proud of the way it treats its librarians. The secret of this failure is, I suppose, that we have not yet learned how to use our professional talent. We have not yet learned how to organize ourselves to achieve our professional goals. We have not yet learned how to apply the exacting standards that the number of reading and seeing materials with chosen, up to date, required by the present day information society. As it is not a dumping place of unwanted materials, which is the case in many libraries. Librarians are not merely custodians of books, but are also the creators of new knowledge, through their writings, teaching, outlook, etc., of preserving knowledge for posterity, and, as sometimes can happen, in the creation of it as a scholarly established discipline by the name of Library Science.

Here the processed books in any documents are evaluated from time to time. They are discarded like dead vegetation material if they are not worth using. As the library has to be a dynamic institution, and not a static institution. Here the librarians are not merely the keepers of the books, but are also the disseminators of knowledge. Here the librarians are not merely the custodians of the books, but are also the creators of knowledge. Here the librarians are not merely the keepers

Divine anger of the Mother

In this context, I want to talk and write about the Mantram and Library, which may be the miracle and the pain in name to the World but has a history of unparalleled love of Mother Divine and Her children. Mantram Library was founded in 1991 by Sri Chinmoy Centre in Prague, Czech Republic, by the Mantram Library Committee. For many years, it operated 24 hours/week and accommodated a vast collection of spiritual books, mainly from Sri Chinmoy Centre but also from other Centres from Italy (1991 to 1997) and Sri Aurobindo Ashram Trust. According to Sri Chinmoy, over 17 million texts, scenes, and videos can flow from the Heart. There are love, emotions, mains, Jnana, Rishis, Avtaars, and Gurus.

The people deserve to the centre, people to the project. I strong and healthy enough to 'mental labor' in Mantram Library. Jnana children, pregnant women, my dreams, and Mother's Grace. Mantram Library was a place of Love, Light, and Peace. Mantram Library was a place of Love, Light, and Peace. Mantram Library was a place of Love, Light, and Pe

From my records, it came that past 25 years ago, like I my wife and I, starting of worth the earth's deep and darkness. But we become useless, and we are not to be in the world, as it should be, that I fully understanding that the time would not wait for us. I had no courage to discuss a death plan with my wife, and she was also, like me, afraid.

We thought of doing a variety of things - publishing our writings in book form, organizing our records and valuable photographs, donating our collection of books and other valuable possessions to a library, and so on. But we could not decide on anything definite. Then suddenly, one day, I received a letter from Dr. Ramakrishna Pillai, Director of the Institute of Mental Health, Madras, inviting me to address the students of the Institute every month hence. Unfortunately, I received an accident and fell from the roof. I broke my back and hips. (Tamarai on March 31, 2011 (UNSTABLE)). I was in the pathetic condition of life and death. I had to be down on the bed for months, which gave my wife and daughter the little time to look after me and to be with me.

As a result, I was bedridden for my back and the hospital, and after a few years, my wife got a severe accident. She was diagnosed with a gall bladder cancer in March 24, 2010. (STRUCK). I then also many of her health problems appeared - heart blockage and open heart surgery (August 19, 2016), eye disease (March 20, 2018) and many other things. Then, my wife died on 2nd May 2019 at 10:30 pm in the hospital. I was in the hospital at that time. I was unable to attend her funeral. I was in the hospital for 3 months. I was in the hospital for 3 months. The next day, I had to stay with a wounded heart. Though I am with no knowledge for the society and the country and the world, I am not able to do anything. I am not able to do anything. I am not able to do anything.

Pictures of the arrested Chief Bloodhound Justice Seekers and Fellows

Thursday, we were happy to hear from the mob that he was doing three projects to pay the depositors.
I asked the following today, hoping to hear from him, but he has not responded to my text about his understandable wrongdoings:

Jan 27, 2020, 11:05 AM

Dear Tamangi,
I am sorry to hear and some unpleasant news about you today.It is hard to believe for me. I wish that is not true. I always think you are the most honest and successful entrepreneur of your country.I pray for your success and for the success of your projects.
Narayan Mishra

After getting no message, he called me and expressed his happiness in my trust in the difficult time and that he would not betray any depositors against my faith. I was happy to hear that from him.
But despite his promise and assurances we were not surprised, I received the following mobile message to him on Jan 31, 2020.

Jan 31, 2020, 11:06 AM

Dear Tamangi,
My conscience does not permit me to give you trouble when you have been kind enough to help me in this situation. Rs in your account will be sent, privately, next week. Thanks for the talk to you. Please call.
Narayan Mishra

Sorry for the inconvenience
I am suffering from Uric acid and cough and fever
My phone was in silence mode
Pls text me

Thank you. I pray for your quick recovery and good health.You know I have had deposits of Rs 5 crores in your bank. Rs 3 crores will be withdrawn tomorrow and Rs 2 crores on the afternoon of Sept 4/tomorrow. Pls let me know about Con Edison's payment. Would I have to pay Con Edison and then the amount will be reimbursed to me? Also, I would like to know with whom to deposit the money. Please coordinate with Mayor Bill de Blasio's office. Please let me know if you have received the check and deposited in your account.

Now the Stated Chief Justice Seeker, Please take care of my money and trust you from the bottom my heart. With love.
Narayan

Ok sir don't worry
Your deposit will be safe and renewed after lockdown opens.
All account staffs are out of valley
Have a safe journey in Nepal. Pray for your well wish

On May 31, 2020, I left Kathmandu for the USA. I was amazed about my victory and extra many letters to him. Now he did not respond to me or at two to matters. I was worried about my deposits and my trust. I was worried about my deposits and my trust. I was worried about my deposits and my trust

Dear Greta Rana,

Thank you for your letter of 15th August. We're sorry not to have seen you during your visit to London at our forthcoming Congresses: in Holland next May, or in Sweden in September.

Nice letter to be before you officially that your Centre was unanimously elected to membership of International P.E.N at the Congress in Seoul.

I should like to express for you personal gratitude and appreciation of all that you have done to create such a Centre, and I very much hope that, through your participation in our meetings, we shall be able to assist that Centre in its endeavours to promote literature and to defend writers who are under threat from the world, and to maintain the contacts with writers of other countries which our organization fosters.

With all best wishes,

Yours sincerely,

Alexander Blokh

82. The Problem of Writers in Nepal

By
The Problem of Writers in Nepal

When my late beloved wife Shanti Mishra and I lived with our only daughter Dr.Pragya Mishra in the USA in 2009 before her son Ashok, we learned about "The Write Practice" and "Book Bub" and subscribed to them. We got our newsletters and subscribed to them. Since then, I have been receiving their information and activities regularly. In the last newsletter, I received a letter from "The Write Practice" on March 1, 2021 and it wrote ...

Hey Narayan!
Get in the habit with writing every day.
Why? Because the story inside of you is too good, too important, to have it "for later." I, too, wished I didn't believe you have what it takes to write.
Yes, I'm talking to you. Yes, you have a story to tell. Yes, you have a unique voice. Yes, you have something to say.
Sometimes, it just takes a little push.
If you're a good writer, you should be paid (yet) (yes, well) for your services
Here's a little push to get you started.
Join me on write-a-thon.
Write in Depot, inspire the writers, and prepare for NaNoWriMo! Book Awards for honouring self-publishing writers. I received the following information of the Writer's Digest and Write Practice and subscribed to them.

Agonies and suffering
With unlimited pain and injustice
Trickling down from two eyes

Tears
Defects of society

After the country introduced multiparty democracy and Nepal became a Republic, we experienced unlimited scandals, unlimited corruption cases, and irregularities and injustices. People have been speaking and writing about them. But the writings have not yet shown any usefulness and worthiness so far. It seems all our writings went to waste-paper boxes or garbage containers. I am so sorry for that. I am so sorry to see the condition of our democratic country so dreadful and fearful, painful and intolerable, where people's voices have no value. where even the President's advice has no value. In this context now I feel -

Writings are for those
Who have eyes
Advice is for those
Who have conscience
Writings have no use
Where people are foolish
Advice has no value
Where people are mulish

86. A Missionary Doctor and an Abandoned Child

86
A Missionary Doctor And An Abandoned Child

There was a hospital named Shanta Bhawan Hospital in Nepal. This hospital was founded by United Mission to Nepal in 1956 as a Christian missionary hospital. The old Rana palace called Shanta Bhawan was rented for this purpose. That building was named Shanta Bhawan after its owner Shanta Shumsher J. B. Rana, son of Juddha Shumsher J. B Rana, prime minister during the Rana regime. It was situated at Sanepa, Lalitpur, in Kathmandu Valley. Dr. Bethel Fleming, a dedicated missionary doctor, founded and managed this hospital for many years. He gave her life to the sick Nepali people's service. She was considered a mother of missionary medical services in this country. Though the area is still called Shanta Bhawan, the building is no more there. At that time, Nepal had very few hospitals. Even in Kathmandu Valley, there were not more than 4/5 hospitals. Shanta Bhawan-hospital was one of them. The hospital had a good name and fame, nationally and internationally, due to its doctors' very efficient, dedicated service. The hospital was a center of attraction to all Nepalese for good health services. Some decades ago, it was amalgamated to Patan Hospital. It is known as Patan Hospital now.

Shanti Bhawan Hospital

Around the year 1970, the hospital opened its separate pediatric wing. That time there was a pediatrician named Dr. Liane Nitschke. She was from Germany. She was single and had dedicated her life to her patients. She was not only competent but also very compassionate, kind, delightful, and beautiful. She was loved by all who met her.
A few years after establishing the pediatric ward, a seriously sick child of about 2/3 was admitted to the hospital. The child was a girl, and her name was Laxmi. She was very tiny, looked much younger than her age. Rather than looking at a human child, she looked like a very sick, skinny baby monkey, just skin and bones. She was diagnosed with chronic tuberculosis. Dr. Nitschke took care of her.
Meanwhile, a very unthinkable, mysterious, strange thing happened there. The family members who were there during the admission disappeared from the scene. The hospital administration tried its best to find them. It seemed that the name and address of the guardian given to the hospital were not correct. The hospital and the doctor did not know what to do. All of them were in a very, very difficult situation.
Dr. Nitschke, being a very dedicated, compassionate physician, was very much worried about the child. She gave special attention to her. On her own, she even managed a caretaker for this patient. After almost a year of care and treatment, her tuberculosis was cured. It was a great joy for the doctor and all concerned. It was a miracle.

Dr. Liane Nitschke and Laxmi

At the same, there raised a significant problem. Laxmi was ready to be discharged from the hospital, but where would she go? No one claimed the child. There were no family members left
